Hammer Ed and his two helpers aim to push the parody and their renovations to the next level. Building a subterranean aquarium under a client's pond, or using a beaver architect to build a swimming pool are some of Hammer Ed's clever solutions. Guest celebrities find themselves in unusual interview conditions to playfully bring out a different side of their public image.

This show also presents a completely integrated web-television experience. Whatever the screen, viewers can continue their television experience or can be attracted to the TV show with complementary new media content through social networks or a dedicated website. Ed's popularity has even earned him lucrative publicity deals with brand names.

There's no sound, but there sure are plenty of laughs.

This crazy Quebec-based troupe uses the city as its stage, and its inhabitants, or victims, as characters! People are caught in a twisted yet funny web of comedic deception.

This updated «Candid Camera» is a tad more risqué and a little kookier with its practical jokes. The little snippets last only a few minutes, and some look more painful than others.

In 1994, Ricardo's aspirations of becoming a filmmaker had dimmed. At the age of twenty-four, he seemed to have resigned himself to being just another faceless individual in the vast sea of consumer culture.

However, an unexpected call from Radio-Canada, informing him that he was a finalist for the 1994-95 edition of the competition "La Course autour du monde", reignited his dormant passion for the arts.

Ricardo's moment had arrived. His selection marked the beginning of a new chapter in his life.

Tasked by the national broadcaster to create a series of short films across the globe, we catch up with Ricardo in Egypt, amid the broadcasted competition. Battling a series of challenges while attempting to produce a four-minute film on female genital mutilation, Ricardo finds himself at a crossroads, contemplating his identity and his legitimacy as an artist.
